

Is Your PMO just a Reporting tool?

A high profile Project, Programme or Portfolio Management Office (PMO) should act as the nerve centre for delivering complex change and should seek to deliver real value to the business way beyond just being a passive reporting mechanism. Get this right and senior management will develop trust in the team and build confidence in a programme's progress and its ability to deliver meaningful business benefits.

Is your PMO just a Reporting tool?

CQC Solutions are experts in their field providing consultancy to a wide range of enterprise businesses across several vertical markets. At the heart of this is the PMO function which provides industry best practice support for governance, reporting, assurance and controls. We deploy specialist consultants backed up by an extensive toolset and have implemented this successfully in many industries and countries.]

CQC Solutions are pleased to announce that we will be at Project Challenge 2010 at the NEC 28th/29th April. http://www.projchallenge.com/exhibitor_page.cfm?id=248

Come see us on stand 48 where you will be able to see demonstrations and ask questions about CA-Clarity PPM functionality with its solution-specific modules that support critical processes of IT Governance.

We will also be demonstrating Severa 3 a SaaS application that optimizes business management and reduces revenue leakage in your professional services organization. It's frequently used by advertising agencies, IT and business consulting firms, law firms, engineering houses and architecture offices.
